Introduction

The Dwana Smallwood Performing Arts Center Student and Parent Handbook combines important center and community information and policies. Students attending The Dwana Smallwood Performing Arts Center, Inc. (DSPAC) are expected to behave in a disciplined, responsible, courteous and respectful manner while attending the Dwana Smallwood Performing Arts Center. Students unwilling or unable to fully commit themselves to the daily regimens, to maintain work habits appropriate for serious students, are advised not to enroll.

Vision / Mission

The Dwana Smallwood Performing Arts Center aims to use the arts, primarily dance, as a means to empower youth within New York's inner city communities. We endeavor to mold elite dancers and artists who will be able to develop, grow and compete on the world's stage. The center will be a springboard for creating community identity and encouraging creative activity in neglected inner city areas.

The Dwana Smallwood Performing Arts Center's mission is to use dance as a platform to encourage, inspire, and facilitate the aspirations of young people by engendering within them discipline, pride, determination, humility, respect and an appreciation for the arts. We endeavor to plant seeds of possibility where previously growth and development has been perceived an impossibility.

Privacy Policy

We want to build on the loyal relationship the Dwana Smallwood Performing Arts Center has with its Students and Parents. Our commitment to you begins with respecting the privacy of our students.

Students Privacy Policy

At DSPAC, student safety is paramount. We will never publish personal information for students of any age. Information provided during class registration will be kept completely confidential. We will never publish a student's first and last name, with the exception of event programs, without receiving prior permission. An example of this case is a student receiving special recognition for excellence. There may be occasions where a student's first name may be used for editorial reasons or to caption a photograph.

We currently employ a few interactive features on our site such as photo galleries, videos, newsletter subscriptions, etc. Students under 13 should not access any interactive portion of this website without first obtaining parental permission. If a child under 13 years of age wants to participate on our website, we encourage the student's parents to participate in his/her experience on our site.
